Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 5, and 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Archibald NZ250811 in view of Strenger 5,125,788. NZ '811 shows a connection apparatus for connecting an implement to a prime mover, the connection apparatus including a body arranged to be mounted on the prime mover, the body including a connection means for connecting the body to the implement; the connection means including at least two recesses disposed substantially at right angles to one another within the body (34/36); a locking member 50 being adapted to move to a first position (figure 6), in which the locking member engages the implement to lock the implement and the body together, the locking member being adapted to move to a second position in which the locking member is disengaged from the implement so that the implement can be demounted from the body (figure 6) and the locking member is carried on the plate 50 which is slidably mounted to the body; and a means 76 to move the locking member which includes a ram 18 mounted on a plate 52 on the same side as the locking member (figure 3) and is slidably mounted to the body, the ram being arranged to move the plate to move the locking member to at least one of the positions. NZ'811 does not show a second ram to move the locking member into the second position. However, Strenger shows a similar connection apparatus for connecting an implement to a prime mover, the connection apparatus including a body having first and second displacement rams coaxially arranged (claims 7 and 8) to move a to lock an implement in first and second positions. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify NZ' 811, as taught by Strenger, to include first and second rams coaxially arranged (column 1, lines 60-64) system of Strenger to save space and be easily mounted and removed for maintenance.

As concerns claim 5, the combination shows the ram is arranged to be extended to move the locking member to the first position (NZ '811, figure 3).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 4 and 9-12 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 5 and 7-8 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
